

【Important】 Method of admission selection will be changed from the application for April/October 2025 Enrollments.

UTIPE has been recruiting students for the Department of Economics of the Graduate School of Economics since 2010 through a special selection process for English-speaking students. From the student admission for 2025 enrollments, the Department of Economics is to undertake a further reform by integrating UTIPE with the General Master's program. It will recruit both Japanese-speaking and English-speaking students through a newly integrated entrance examination. Japanese language ability remains unrequired to obtain the degree.
